

Fair Trade

Co+op Explorers love fair trade bananas!

Some foods we love come from far away and it's not easy to know if the farmer who grew the food was paid fairly for their work. When you see the fair trade symbol on packages or signs at the co-op, you know that the farmer got a fair deal. Fair trade farmers also work together to improve their communities.

Local

Co+op Explorers love local food and farmers!

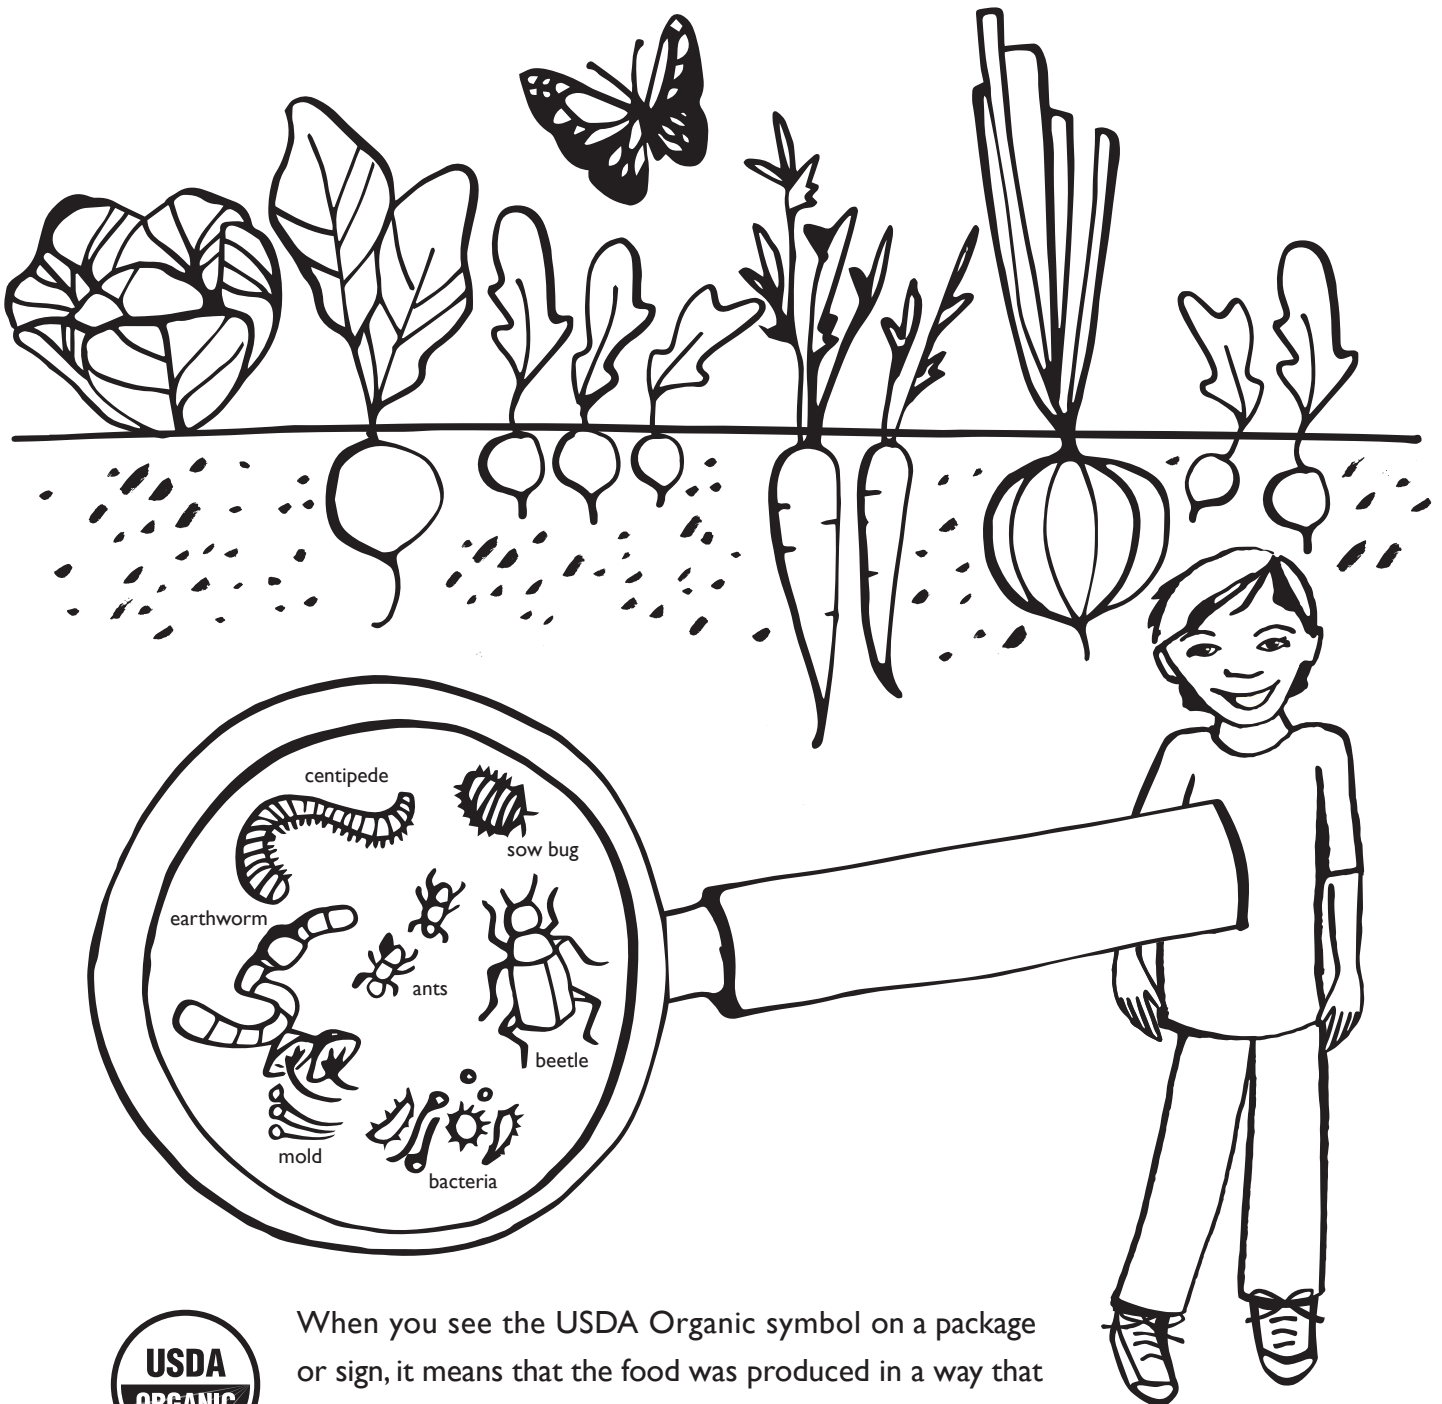

When you see this local symbol on signs around the store, it means those foods come from near the co-op! Local food tastes great and helps our community grow.

Organic

Co+op Explorers know healthy soil is important!

Organic farming builds rich, healthy soil that is full of life! When the soil is healthy, farmers can grow awesome veggies that taste delicious. Take a closer look at what's happening in organic soil.

When you see the USDA Organic symbol on a package or sign, it means that the food was produced in a way that is good for plants, pollinators and people.
